Subject: Equitable Gas Installation Standards, Revised November 17, 2009

On November 17, 2009, important changes in the "Equitable Gas Installation Standards," were implemented. Therefore, please replace all prior issues you may have in your possession with the enclosed "Equitable Gas Installation Standards, Revised November 17, 2009" and discard those prior issues to avoid confusion.

As you know, the "Installation Standards" is subject to change. Many of the changes in the revised edition are associated with the rearrangement of chapters and subchapters to better accommodate the flow of information.

Responsibility for consumer safety is everybody's business – and customer and contractor safety is a top priority for Equitable Gas Company. You and your employees must familiarize yourselves with the new edition and review all pertinent sections before performing any job-related tasks for Equitable Gas Company.

We have also enclosed a complimentary copy of the "Approved Materials List" for your use. Both documents are available for viewing and printing from our Web site at www.equitablegas.com and those documents will be the most up-to-date editions.
